WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES

- To showcase leadership, expertise, successes, and key challenges relating to Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) in the Arctic;
- To share Canada's broad experiences with northern co-management, including the fundamental importance of Indigenous and local engagement to these processes;
- To hear directly from EIA practitioners, including Indigenous Peoples, community leaders and industry representatives on how Arctic EIA can be improved, and to identify a path for future success; and
- To produce a workshop report that will help the Sustainable Development Working Group (SDWG) Editorial Committee highlight how the results of this work can drive future improvements to Arctic EIA, and the opportunities available for getting there.

WORKSHOP FACILITATORS

BARRETT HORNE, MA, MAOD

Barrett Horne has devoted – nearly 40 years to empowering teams and organizations and leaders to be the best they can be accessing their own unique wisdom and expertise and turning those insights into practical actions to achieve outcomes that are important to them.

With senior management and consulting experience in nearly 40 countries, Barrett brings to his work deep insights into the complex challenges of human systems and cultures, along with a rich repertoire of tools and methods for generating constructive and productive group insights and actions.

His clients have included organizations involved with transportation, public housing, health services, NGOs, IT, education, and First Nations. Residing off-grid in the Yukon bush since 2002 (moving there from Oxford, UK), Barrett earned BA and MA degrees in Philosophy and History (University of Prince Edward Island and Western Kentucky University, respectively) and an MA degree in Organizational Development and Management (Fielding Graduate Institute).

MICHAEL PEALOW, B.COM, EC.D(F), PAED

For over a decade, Michael Pealow has provided consulting services to First Nations, governments, not-for-profit organizations, and small businesses. He has worked with his clients to tackle issues as diverse as economic development, community development, decolonization, language, and cultural revitalization, marginalized workers, nation-building, social and market housing, sexualized violence, youth empowerment, and more.

Michael specializes in facilitation, planning, and negotiation support for northern communities and organizations. He serves his clients by helping them have the important and sometimes difficult conversations that need to be had. When grappling with the seemingly-impossible, Michael helps groups develop a deeper, shared understanding of even the most complex and divisive issues.

WELCOME

WILLARD HAGEN

DEPUTY MINISTER

DEPARTMENT OF LANDS, GOVERNMENT OF THE NORTHWEST TERRITORIES

Willard Hagen has been the Deputy Minister of the Department of Lands since July 2016. Willard has significant experience in business, environmental assessment, land use management, and resource management.

A bush pilot of Gwich'in ancestry, born in Tsiigehtchic and raised in the Travaillant River area, Willard completed his formal education in wildlife management in Inuvik, where he later established Aklak Air in the late 1970s, and owned and operated the company for 30 years.

Willard was elected President of the Gwich'in Tribal Council (GTC) in 1990 and led the Council to a signed Gwich'in Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement (1992). As the President of the GTC, Willard also served as the President of the Gwich'in Development Corporation and as a Member of the Gwich'in Arbitration Panel.

In 1996, Willard became a member of the pre-established Gwich'in Land and Water Board (GLWB) before the Mackenzie Valley Resource Management Act (MVRMA) was proclaimed as law in 1998, and in 2002 he officially became the Chair of that Board. He was a member of the working group that drafted instructions to the Department of Justice on the MVRMA and Regulations (1998).

In 2005, along with carrying out his duties as Chair of the GLWB, he became Acting Chair of the Mackenzie Valley Land and Water Board (MVLWB). In November 2010, Willard was re-appointed for a second consecutive three-year term as the Chair/CEO of the MVLWB by the Minister of Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada.

KEYNOTE SPEECH

JILL BAKER

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF IMPACT ASSESSMENT

Jill Baker is the Executive Director of the International Association for Impact Assessment (IAIA), the leading global network on best practices in impact assessment. She describes herself as "a jack of all trades and master of none," reflective of the diverse and circuitous career path she has taken, so far.

For much of her career, Jill was a policy advisor and sustainable development expert for the Governments of Canada and Alberta. She has worked in impact assessment in a number of capacities: starting off as an environmental expert for the Alberta Energy Regulator in the 1990s; moving to Environment Canada's environmental assessment office where she worked on some of Canada's largest impact assessments; then as a policy director at Natural Resources Canada; and now with IAIA. In addition to her work in impact assessment, Jill spent five years trying to advance climate change and water use policy in Canada, working for the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy.

Jill is passionate about the natural world (reflected in her "geek" status as a biologist), is curious about the diversity of the human world, and when not working, she loves spending time with her most important world – her kids.

PLENARY SESSION - ARCTIC EIA PROJECT RESULTS TO DATE

SEIJA RANTAKALLIO

PROJECT LEAD, FINLAND

GENESIS & EVOLUTION OF THE ARCTIC EIA PROJECT

Seija Rantakallio has been a Ministerial Adviser at the Finnish Ministry of the Environment since 1996. She is in charge of enforcement and development of EIA legislation, guidance of regional environmental authorities, preparing Finnish position in EIA matters in the EU and within the UN/ECE Convention on Environmental Impact Assessment in a Transboundary Context (Espoo Convention). She is the Point of Contact of the Espoo Convention in Finland.

Before joining the Ministry, Seija worked at the Finnish Road Administration as an Environmental Expert and was involved in many EIA procedures in the early years of EIA legislation in Finland. She was the author of the first EIA guidelines of Road Planning and Design in Finland. She was also involved in the procedure for preparing the Arctic EIA Guidelines 1997. Presently she is the project leader of the ongoing Arctic EIA project (Good Practice Recommendations for EIA and Public Participation in the Arctic) that works under the Arctic Council's Sustainable Development Working Group. Seija is M.Sc. (Forestry) from the University of Helsinki.

VERNAE ANGNABOOGOK

CULTURAL SUSTAINABILITY ADVISOR

INUIT CIRCUMPOLAR COUNCIL

Vernae Angnaboogok is Inupiaq from Wales, AK, traditionally known as Kingigin, an Inupiaq village located at the northwestern most tip of the Seward Peninsula in Alaska (USA). She was raised by her mother and grandparents who instilled in her the passion for learning and embracing the Inupiaq way of life.

Vernae attended Mt. Edgecumbe High School, a boarding school that many Alaska Native students from across the State of Alaska attend. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Alaska Fairbanks in Rural Development with an emphasis in Tribal and Local Government Administration.

Presently, Vernae is the Cultural Sustainability Advisor at the Inuit Circumpolar Council (ICC) Alaska. In this capacity, she assists in planning, organizing, and fundraising for advancing Inuit cultural sustainability including Inuit food security and food sovereignty, representing ICC on the Sustainable Development Working Group (SDWG) at the Arctic Council, and to develop and work with leadership to implement a plan for meaningful engagement in community sustainability and adaptation activities in the Arctic Council and other forums of interest.

PÄIVI A. KARVINEN

PROJECT COORDINATOR

ARCTIC EIA PROJECT, MINISTRY OF THE ENVIRONMENT – FINLAND

Päivi works full time in the Arctic EIA project coordinating and facilitating the project in the Ministry of the Environment of Finland. She is the main point of contact of the project. Päivi's expertise is Environmental Impact Assessment and pilot studies on that and other environmental fields. Päivi has been active for years as a chair and in other positions in the Finnish Association of Impact Assessment. On her free time she dances Rock'n' Swing with her husband – and enjoys the company of her six godchildren and four godgrandchildren.

ANNI-HELENA RUOTSALA

ENVIRONMENT SECRETARY

SAAMI PARLIAMENT

Anni-Helena Ruotsala is the Environmental Secretary of the Sámi Parliament of Finland, the self-government body of the Sámi in Finland set by the law (Act on the Sámi Parliament 974/1995, 5 §). In this capacity she works with activities concerning i.e. land use planning, mining and forestry and their impact on the traditional land use of the area and its biodiversity and nature, the traditional Sámi livelihoods, Sámi cultural heritage (including traditional knowledge), and the constitutional rights of the Sámi people as a whole.

Anni-Helena is a Sámi with a reindeer herding family background, originally from Enontekiö, who nowadays lives with her husband and two children in Inari, Sápmi (the Northernmost part of Finland).

PRESENTATION

FIRELIGHT CONSULTANTS

Dr. Ginger Gibson is a Director of the Firelight Group. She works predominantly on the negotiation and implementation of Impact and Benefit Agreements (IBAs). She is the co-author of the IBA Community Toolkit for Negotiation of Impact and Benefit Agreements. As a Trudeau Scholar, she completed a PhD in Mining Engineering at the University of British Columbia and is now an Adjunct Professor there.

FACILITATED CONVERSATION – CANADA’S NORTHERN APPROACHES TO EIA

RYAN BARRY

NUNAVUT IMPACT REVIEW BOARD

Ryan Barry serves as the Executive Director of the Nunavut Impact Review Board (NIRB), an institution of public government with responsibilities for the impact assessment of proposed development in Nunavut, Canada’s largest territory. Living on the Northwest Passage in Cambridge Bay, Nunavut, Ryan leads a small team of dedicated professionals on some of the most significant impact assessments in Canada, including the ongoing strategic environmental assessment of oil and gas development in Baffin Bay and Davis Strait. Ryan also plays an active role in the activities of the Nunavut Marine Council (NMC), of which the NIRB is a member, assisting in the development of NMC recommendations to Government on issues affecting the marine areas of Nunavut.

Ryan holds a Master of Science and a Bachelor of Science from the University of Prince Edward Island, and has served with the NIRB for the past eleven years. With extensive experience in public outreach, northern policy development and impact assessment theory and practice, Ryan regularly participates in regulatory improvement initiatives throughout Canada and the Arctic.

MARK CLIFFE-PHILLIPS

MACKENZIE VALLEY ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT
& REVIEW BOARD

Mark is currently the Executive Director of the Mackenzie Valley Environmental Impact Review Board (Review Board), which is an independent administrative tribunal responsible for the environmental impact assessment process in the NWT. Prior to joining the Review Board, he was the Executive Director of the Wek’èezhìi Land and Water Board in Yellowknife from 2010 to 2013, which provides regulatory permits to Canada’s largest diamond mines.

Mark first moved to the NWT in 2002 where he worked as a teacher on a fur-trapping program for youth at risk in Fort Good Hope, prior to joining the Sahtu Land and Water Board in 2003. His educational background is in Physical Geography at both the undergraduate and graduate level. He was a member of the 2015 Governor General’s Canadian Leadership Conference and was a Regional Co-Chair of the 2017 Governor General’s Canadian Leadership Conference.

TIM SMITH

YUKON ENVIRONMENTAL AND SOCIO-ECONOMIC ASSESSMENT BOARD

Tim Smith has been the Executive Director at the Yukon Environmental and Socio-economic Assessment Board (YESAB) since November 2013. Prior to that, he was Manager, Mining Lands with the Mineral Resources Branch of Yukon Energy, Mines & Resources. Before moving to Whitehorse in 2010, he worked as a Senior Policy Advisor with the Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency in Ottawa and with Environment Canada in water policy and international environmental affairs.

Tim also spent eight years with the Nova Scotia Department of the Environment in its policy unit. He has an undergraduate in environmental biology from McGill and a graduate degree in environmental studies from Dalhousie.

JIM UMPHERSON

CANADA BOARD MEMBER

INUVIALUIT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT
REVIEW BOARD

Jim Umperson has lived, worked and travelled in the NWT as a federal government employee for Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (now Indigenous and Northern Affairs Canada – INAC) for many years. Jim worked in the areas of environmental protection and enforcement, land and water management through the administration of various Acts and Regulations for the NWT. Jim helped in the implementation of the Nunavut Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement until the establishment of Nunavut, and helped in the implementation of the Gwich'in Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement, the Sahtu Dene and Métis Comprehensive Land Claim Agreement and the Inuvialuit Final Agreement.

Jim retired from public service in 2008 and since December 2011, has served as a Member of the Environmental Impact Review Board for the Inuvialuit Settlement Region.

ARMCHAIR DISCUSSION – REGIONAL EXPERTS

ADAM CHAMBERLAIN

LAWYER AND PARTNER

GOWLING WLG'S ENVIRONMENTAL LAW GROUP

Adam Chamberlain is a partner in Gowling WLG's Toronto office. Certified as a Specialist in Environmental Law by the Law Society of Ontario, Adam has practised environmental and regulatory law for most of his career, focused on natural resources and infrastructure development. Adam's practice encompasses diverse matters related to the environmental and other regulatory requirements involved with project development. Adam is also extensively involved in relationships between Indigenous communities, governments and project proponents, including on matters related to all manner of developments.

Adam has extensive experience with Environmental Assessment projects including energy, mining and wastewater facilities; advising on compliance with territorial, provincial and federal environmental legislation and regulations generally; acting as counsel regarding litigation related to environmental prosecutions, environmental assessment and other environmental approvals, including judicial review of government decisions and related appeals; and advising on environmental aspects of corporate transactions, brownfield redevelopment and risks related to climate change, management of carbon and other emissions, and the related regulatory and business risks. Adam also provides strategic legal advice regarding Indigenous involvement in natural resource matters and infrastructure development for Indigenous and other proponents of projects; for communities being consulted and accommodated; and regarding the provincial, territorial and federal regulatory frameworks as they relate to development and related consultation and relationship creation.

JAMES EETOOLOOK

VICE PRESIDENT

NUNAVUT TUNNGAVIK INCORPORATED

James Eetoolook has been a respected leader all his adult life, at the community, regional and territorial levels. His commitment to traditional outdoor pursuits is always present.

James was born in Fort Ross in his family's traditional hunting and trapping area. He went to school first in Spence Bay, then in Inuvik. He began his working career with the Hudson's Bay Company as a clerk, eventually becoming manager of a Co-op Store.

From 1975 to 1989, James worked for Spence Bay (now Taloyoak), first as the community's Settlement Secretary and then as the Senior Administrative Officer for the newly-created hamlet. His exceptional service was recognized by the Nunavut Association of Municipalities with a special award, now named the Eetoolook Award, which is presented annually to the top SAO.

James was elected President of the Kitikmeot Inuit Association in 1989. He also served as vice-president of the Tungavik Federation of Nunavut, and has held the position of vice-president at Nunavut Tunngavik Inc. since 1993. James is one of the original signatories to the Nunavut Land Claims Agreement.

James is married, with four children and many grandchildren. His personal interests include hunting, fishing and camping.

ETHEL BLONDIN-ANDREW

CHAIRPERSON

SAHTU SECRETARIAT INC.

Ethel Blondin-Andrew was the first Aboriginal woman to be elected to the Parliament of Canada, serving five consecutive terms (1988 - 2006) for the district of Western Arctic in the NWT.

Ethel received a B.Ed. from the University of Alberta in 1974. Before embarking upon her political career, she spent many years working in the North as a teacher, and later as an Assistant Deputy Minister with the Government of the NWT. Under Prime Ministers Chrétien and Martin, she served as Secretary of State then Minister of State, respectively, for Children and Youth. She was also Minister of State (Northern Development) in the Liberal Cabinet of Prime Minister Paul Martin.

Ethel is currently Chair of Sahtu Secretarial Incorporated.

FACILITATED DISCUSSION – ARCTIC COUNCIL PERMANENT PARTICIPANTS

JORDAN PETERSON

BOARD MEMBER

GWICH'IN COUNCIL INTERNATIONAL

Jordan Peterson was raised in Aklavik and has Gwich'in, Inuvialuit, Scottish and Swedish ancestry. During his upbringing he was primarily raised in a Gwich'in environment and connects most with this background, although he is proud of all of his ethnic roots.

Jordan has dedicated his life to his communities. He worked for the Gwich'in Tribal Council as a Community Development Officer before being elected as Vice-President. He works with Gwich'in Youth and youth from the North through his role as a Co-Chair for Our Voices, which is a Indigenous emerging leaders collective that promotes, encourages and implements work for young Indigenous people in the North.

Jordan has been a part of a number of boards in Inuvik and as a youth representative for Gwich'in Council International. Jordan is currently a Jane Glassco Fellow. FACILITATED DISCUSSION – INDUSTRY PERSPECTIVES

CLAUDINE LEE

HEAD OF ENVIRONMENT

DOMINION DIAMOND EKATI ULC

Claudine Lee is the Head of Environment for Dominion Diamond Ekati ULC, Canada's largest independent diamond producer and one of the world's largest suppliers of premium rough diamonds. Claudine oversees the company's environmental compliance, environmental initiatives, permitting, and community engagement activities.

Claudine joined the company in 2011 as part of the Environment Team working out of the Ekati Diamond Mine, moving through a number of progressively senior roles, and has been the head of the department since 2015. Claudine holds a M.Sc. from Queen's University in Geology and started her career in exploration in the north working on diamond projects in the NWT, Nunavut and Greenland.

Claudine has seen the company through an exciting time in the growth and expansion of the mine, as part of the transition team from BHP Billiton to Dominion Diamond. Claudine recently completed the permitting of the Jay Project, including the Environmental Assessment of the project, and the Water Licence and Land Use Permit process. Currently, Claudine is working on permitting another exciting project at Ekati, the Misery Underground Project.

TOM HOEFER

NWT AND NUNAVUT CHAMBER OF MINES

Tom Hoefer has spent over 25 years championing for a strong northern minerals industry. He currently does this through the NWT & Nunavut Chamber of Mines, where he has been Executive Director for nearly 14 years.

Prior to that, Tom was the Manager of Public & Government Affairs at Diavik Diamond Mine, Canada's largest diamond producer, for 11 years. He also worked for the Federal Government as the NWT Director of Mineral & Petroleum Resources. Tom has worked in mineral and oil exploration, and has degrees in geology from the University of Saskatchewan and Queen's University. He was born and raised in Yellowknife, the son of a gold miner.

KENNETH RUPTASH

VICE PRESIDENT

NUNAVUT IMPACT REVIEW BOARD

Ryan Barry serves as the Executive Director of the Nunavut Impact Review Board (NIRB), an institution of public government with responsibilities for the impact assessment of proposed development in Nunavut, Canada's largest territory. Living on the Northwest Passage in Cambridge Bay, Nunavut, Ryan leads a small team of dedicated professionals on some of the most significant impact assessments in Canada, including the ongoing strategic environmental assessment of oil and gas development in Baffin Bay and Davis Strait. Ryan also plays an active role in the activities of the Nunavut Marine Council (NMC), of which the NIRB is a member, assisting in the development of NMC recommendations to Government on issues affecting the marine areas of Nunavut.

Ryan holds a Master of Science and a Bachelor of Science from the University of Prince Edward Island, and has served with the NIRB for the past eleven years. With extensive experience in public outreach, northern policy development and impact assessment theory and practice, Ryan regularly participates in regulatory improvement initiatives throughout Canada and the Arctic.
